

Review of the Marine Spatial Plan

Thomas Davis – 24 August 2024

A few months ago the government agreed to start allowing new wind turbines to be built in Jersey waters and now here we are talking about how to look after the waters around the island. Here we are with a government that wants to build wind turbines and in the same breath they are worried about our waters. The damage that this would do would be catastrophic to our island, people's jobs and livelihoods would be affected.

I want the government to explain how they come to these decisions because to me it doesn't make sense.
