Sea Fisheries Advisory Panel – questions and answers (Tape No. 447)

Deputy Philip John Rondel of St. John asked Deputy Harry Hallewell Baudains of St. Clement, President of the Agriculture and Fisheries Committee, the following questions –

- “1. Would the President give details of how the Sea Fisheries Advisory Panel is funded?
2. Who records the official minutes of the Panel and are they obtainable for States members other than by way of extracts reported in the general minutes of the Agriculture and Fisheries Committee?
3. Would the President undertake to review the Panel's procedures and report back to members with recommendations on ways to ensure that appointments to the Panel are made democratically?”

The President of the Agriculture and Fisheries Committee replied as follows –

- “1. The Panel has no real expenses. It meets at the Howard Davis Farm and such services as the distribution of agendas, duplication of papers, etc. etc. are met from within the Committee's budget.
2. The Greffier of the States, who kindly makes available a Committee Clerk. This is an advisory body set up to advise the Agriculture and Fisheries Committee. It is not a decision-making body and its minutes are circulated to and discussed by the Agriculture and Fisheries Committee, and of course to the members of the Panel, who are expected to consult with the industry. The Sea Fisheries Advisory Panel is an important link between the Committee and the industry. Not only does the Committee seek the views of the Panel on matters under discussion, the Panel also draws the attention of the Committee to areas where it believes action needs to be considered.
3. No. The Agriculture and Fisheries Committee, in May of 1997, considered the composition of the Panel, and agreed that its membership enabled the interests of all sections of the industry to be fully represented. I have neither read nor heard anything that would make me disagree with this view. The associations that make up the membership of the Panel nominate their own representatives, and in addition, there are members who are invited to join because of their long and valuable experience in these matters. The Committee believes that this is the perfect model for a panel. Naturally, if the Committee felt at any time there was a section of the industry whose views were not being heard it could change the membership.”
