

Have we gone past the point of no return with the Overdale option? Surely People's Park was the cheaper and easier build. And couldn't other areas be turned to green space in order to compensate for the loss of the park. Was this not the main issue with People's Park?