REPORT

Part I

These draft Regulations are concerned primarily with the revision of fines for offences under the Road Traffic (Jersey) Law 1956, as amended. When the 1956 Law was enacted the penalty provisions naturally reflected the attitudes and the value of money at the time. Since then, there have been several increases in the various penalty provisions. Many new offences have been created.

Whilst the penalty provisions were amended extensively by -

- the Road Traffic (No. 15) (Jersey) Regulations 1979 (R & O 6714); and
- the Road Traffic (No. 36) (Jersey) Regulations 1990 (R & O 8077), the various penalties for the offences under the 1956 Law have never actually been reviewed in their totality.

Since 1990, the States have of course also enacted the Criminal Justice (Standard Scale of Fines) (Jersey) Law 1993, which sets out four levels of fine as follows -

Level 1	£50
Level 2	£500
Level 3	£2,000
Level 4	£5,000

The penalties for offences under the Road Traffic Law have thus far not been linked to the levels on the standard scale. The main purpose of this amendment is to link the penalty provisions to those levels. By doing so, the need periodically to increase fines under the Road Traffic Law will be obviated. On each occasion that the amount of fines in the Schedule to the Criminal Justice (Standard Scale of Fines) (Jersey) Law 1993 is amended, that amendment will apply automatically to the Road Traffic Law as to any other enactment which refers to the standard scale.

Regulation 1 would amend the fines for offences under the Road Traffic Law in accordance with the following Table -

Part II

The next purpose of the draft Regulations is to amend the Road Traffic (Jersey) Law 1956 to empower the Magistrate and the Royal Court to order the disqualification from driving of a defendant before he/she has been sentenced for an offence for which disqualification may be imposed.

At present, if a person is presented before the Court and sentencing is adjourned (for example to obtain background and/or psychiatric reports), even where that person has pleaded guilty, he/she remains at liberty to drive a motor vehicle even though the Court will in due course almost certainly be bound to disqualify the defendant. Moreover, those cases which are remanded for background reports are almost inevitably the more serious cases in which the need to disqualify is all the more pressing.

There has long been a power in the courts in England and Wales to order disqualification from driving immediately upon an accused being presented to the court and pleading guilty.

The draft Regulation 2 would make similar provision for the Magistrate's Court or the Royal Court, after a person had pleaded guilty, or been found guilty, to order him/her to be disqualified pending the eventual imposition of sentence. Any period of disqualification imposed on passing of the eventual sentence would be treated as reduced by the period during which he/she had been subject to an interim disqualification. Similar provision would also be made relating to powers to disqualify upon the committal of a person from the Magistrate's Court to the Royal Court.

Part III

The remaining provisions of the draft Regulations are, as indicated in the draftsman's Explanatory Note, concerned with drafting improvements and contain a number of consequential amendments which do not go to the substance of the Committee's proposals.

Conclusion

The Committee believes that the proposed adjustments to the levels of fine are consistent with the nature and/or gravity of the offences concerned.

The proposal to empower the Courts to order interim driving disqualifications was originally made by the Magistrate and the Committee believes that such a power would indeed be in the public interest.

Explanatory Note

These Regulations further amend the Road Traffic (Jersey) Law 1956 so as to -

- (1) revise the fines applicable for offences under the Law so that they all relate to the standard level of fines (at present level 1 = £50, level 2 = £500, level 3 = £2,000 and level 4 = £5,000) (Regulation 1);
- (2) provide a power of interim disqualification after conviction but before sentence for any offence for which disqualification from holding or obtaining a driving licence may be imposed (Regulation 2);
- (3) make minor amendments of a corrective nature and repeal redundant provisions (Regulations 3-6); and
- (4) make a minor amendment consequent on the repeal and replacement of the Road Transport Lighting (Jersey) Law 1956 (Regulation 7).
