To whom it may concern

I am writing to you with regards to the possibility of the states providing 20hrs paid nursery care for 3 to 4 year olds.

My daughter has just turned three and is at a fee paying preschool as I have to go to work - she has attended since the age of 8 months old. The school I am sending her to has not got a preschool attached to it, therefore I would have to move her to a states preschool in order for me not to have to pay fees for a year.

I do not feel that it would be in her best interest to move her to a states preschool for a year to then have to move her to another school a year later. This would be too unsettling for her.

I feel it is a very unfair situation that I will have to pay for her nursery attendance when there are other children of the same age who have this free - of course this will become even more unfair when we have to pay service tax on fees paid too.

I look forward to any comments that you may have and do hope there is a positive outcome to this situation.
