

Dear

It occurs to me that you and your colleagues would have more idea of what is happening in Britain with regard to erection of masts if you read the history of what happened in America during the 1950s onwards.

The history of events can be found in an excellent book by Paul Brodeur, 'The Zapping of America' - published by Norton & Company Inc. New York. ISBN 0-193-0-16427. Rare in Britain, but on the internet Alibris sold me one for $11.00. This is a history of investigations proving the dangers and denials of the real effects by the Dept. Of Defense etc.

It also includes the bombardment of the American Embassy in Moscow (Project Pandora) with levels of electromagnetic radiofrequencies (microwaves) much lower than the American so-called 'safe permitted levels' and causing appalling illness amongst staff including the deaths of 3 ambassadors (one was Walter J. Stoessell of a leukaemia-like disease and!

I used to get in a terrible muddle with EMR; ELF; microwaves or radar, but now know they are all the same kind of agent - so are Xrays and we know staff have to be protected from those and how they killed Marie Curie.

I wish you well with your studies and I hope fervently that residents in Jersey do not end up suffering as are residents all over Britain. I feel very ill in the homes affected in Kensworth and would have to leave if it happened to me.
