The Human Resources Committee notes that, although not quantified, the report and proposition identifies that the new Privileges and Procedures Committee should be provided with adequate manpower resources. If the States agree the proposals, any additional staffing requirements that may be identified should be provided from within existing manpower levels, including, if necessary, the re-allocation of staff resources already agreed to oversee the implementation process. The Committee notes that it will be given the opportunity to comment on the manpower implications of any Propositions lodged by the new Committee in the future.
