DRAFT SEA FISHERIES (LICENSING OF FISHING BOATS) (AMENDMENT No. 6) (JERSEY) REGULATIONS 201-

REPORT

Fishing by locally registered, commercial fishing vessels is controlled by Fishing Licences issued by the Minister, as sanctioned by the Sea Fisheries (Licensing of Fishing Boats) (Jersey) Regulations 2003. The Minister issues licence conditions for each of a number of classes of fishing vessel, such conditions changing on a regular basis, particularly in respect of restrictions on the quantities of fish (quota) that may be retained.

Under the existing Regulations, notices amending licence conditions can be published in a number of different ways, but are normally sent through the mail system in hard copy to each fisherman's address for service.

Other jurisdictions have successfully moved away from this process and now publish licence conditions on a website. If this amendment is adopted, it is intended that amendments to quota allocations would be published on a website, but that more complex licence conditions impacting on the majority of fishermen would continue to be issued in the normal way. Commercial fishermen have been consulted on this proposal and the majority are supportive, as they would welcome a reduction in the amount of mail they receive in respect of changes to licence conditions that do not relate to their fishing activities.

Only a small number of Jersey licensed fishermen target species subject to quota, and so this would help prevent the unnecessary distribution of amended conditions to some 150 fishermen on a regular basis. There would therefore be some small efficiency savings in terms of postage and officer time.

Advantage has also been taken of this amendment to make a minor and inconsequential correction to the Regulations in respect of the number of classes of fishing licences and permits, and the ability of the Minister to determine classes of licence for administrative purposes.

Financial and manpower implications

There are no financial or manpower implications for the States arising from these draft Regulations.

Explanatory Note

These Regulations amend the Sea Fisheries (Licensing of Fishing Boats) (Jersey) Regulations 2003 (“principal Regulations”). The main change is to make new provision in respect of how notices of variations, suspensions and revocations of fishing boat licences, access permits and fishing permits may be published. The amendments also allow the Minister to determine classes of fishing boat licence, access permit and fishing permit for the purpose of the Regulations.

Regulation 1 is an interpretation provision.

Regulation 2 deletes a definition of “overall length” which is no longer required following the new provision made by Regulation 3.

Regulation 3 substitutes the current Regulation 6 to allow the Minister to determine classes of licence and permit for the purpose of the Regulations. Currently Regulation 6 provides for 2 classes of fishing boat licence and 1 class each of access permit and fishing permit. However the Regulations in fact require 2 types of fishing permit: one for use of beam trawls for the purposes of Regulations 2(6A) and 3(2A); the other for use of restricted trawls and pair trawling for the purposes of Regulation 3A(2). Regulation 3 removes this discrepancy. Regulation 6 currently allows for 2 classes of fishing boat licence, Class A and Class B, which relate to the overall length of the boat. The new provision will allow the Minister to determine other classes of fishing boat licence if the Minister chooses. A class of licence or permit may be determined by reference to such matters as the Minister thinks fit.

Regulation 4 makes new provision in respect of how licence and permit variations, suspensions and revocations may be published. Currently notice of variations, suspensions and revocations of licences and permits may be published in the Jersey Gazette. These Regulations remove this option and instead allow such notice to be published on a website. A notice must relate to all licences, access permits or fishing permits, or any class of licence or permit.

Regulation 5 removes a redundant reference to Class A and Class B fishing boats.

Regulation 6 sets out the title of these Regulations and provides that they will come into force 7 days after they are made.
