

Dear Scrutiny,

I support the decision to cut Nursery fees for high earning couples of £75K plus a year, especially when one considers what the difference the states pension payout is for a couple and what they have to live on.

The system is allowing people who benefit, a more elaborate lifestyle which the taxpayer should not have to contribute towards, It's morally wrong to help them to buy a new Mercedes or Audi (this is how some arrive at nursery) when there are other more needy situations.

The many people opposing this are the ones benefiting from the payouts, you're not getting the support from the public for the cuts, because it doesn't directly effect the ordinary person on the street, yet one hears so many agreeing and think it's absolutely right.

I hope this proposal is successful.

Regards
