I honestly believe that we will not get anywhere in creating a more equal society unless we are able to bring the issue out into the light. Transparency, in my opinion, is the only way to achieve greater equality for women. Pay roll data should be published for both the private and public sector, the UK has commendably already passed this so I see no reason as to why Jersey cannot follow suit. All sectors need to show that they are committed and willing to work towards eradicating any potential gender pay gap and only through providing this information can the government make a start.

Kind regards,
