DRAFT GOODS AND SERVICES TAX (JERSEY) LAW 200

European Convention on Human Rights

In accordance with the provisions of Article 16 of the Human Rights (Jersey) Law 2000 the Minister for Treasury and Resources has made the following statement –

In the view of the Minister for Treasury and Resources the provisions of the Draft Goods and Services Tax (Jersey) Law 200- are compatible with the Convention Rights.

(Signed) Senator T.A. Le Sueur

REPORT

Background

The States Assembly agreed on 13th May 2005 (P.44/2005) to introduce a broad-based, 3% Goods and Services Tax (GST) as from 2008.

Comments

In the light of this decision, and following extensive consultation during 2006 with the business community and the wider public, law drafting on the above law has now concluded and the final draft of the law is attached to this Report.

It should be noted that, as a result of the consultation exercise and comments made by States Members during the debates on Projets P.44/2005, and P.86/2006 the draft Law now excludes by exemption the supplies of approved charitable organisations. In addition, medical and paramedical supplies are excluded (by exemption) when supplied by registered health care professionals and registered health care institutions. Prescribed medicines will also be excluded and treated as zero-rated supplies. However the exclusion (by zero rating) for the provision of residential accommodation has now been restricted and does not now apply to the repair, alteration, conversion, enlargement or improvement of existing buildings.

It was always intended to allow approximately 12 months to elapse between the passing of the draft Law and its implementation, and it is now expected that Goods and Services Tax will be implemented from April 2008.

Financial and manpower implications

It is estimated that 10 staff will need to be employed in order to administer the tax at an approximate operating cost of £1 million per annum. However, a 3% GST should generate approximately £45 million per annum in taxation revenue net of operational costs.

European Convention on Human Rights

Article 16 of the Human Rights (Jersey) Law 2000 requires the Minister in charge of a Projet de Loi to make a statement about the compatibility of the provisions of the Projet with the Convention rights (as defined by Article 1 of the Law). On 5th March 2007 the Minister for Treasury and Resources made the following statement before Second Reading of this Projet in the States Assembly –

In the view of the Minister for Treasury and Resources the provisions of the Draft Goods and Services Tax (Jersey) Law 200- are compatible with the Convention Rights.

Explanatory Note

The Goods and Services Tax (Jersey) Law 200- would if passed provide for the imposition, determination and administration of a goods and services tax in Jersey.

Part 1 Preliminary

Article 1 contains all the terms of general use in the draft Goods and Services Tax (Jersey) Law 200- (GST Law). For example, the “Comptroller” means the Comptroller of Income Tax and “GST” means goods-and-services tax.

Article 2 provides a detailed explanation of what a business is for the purposes of GST.

Article 3 sets out what persons are regarded as connected persons for GST purposes, following the definition in Article 3A of the Income Tax (Jersey) Law 1961.

Articles 4 and 5 define the concept of belonging to a country for GST purposes.

Part 2 Imposition of GST

Article 6 makes GST chargeable on the domestic supply of goods and services by taxable persons, on the importation of goods by any person into Jersey, and on supplies of services outside Jersey that have certain connections with Jersey, including a Jersey recipient.

Article 7 specifies who is liable for GST.

Article 8 specifies 3% as the general rate of GST and this is capped for 3 years. Afterwards, the States may alter the rate by Regulations.

Part 3 Registration and responsibility under Law

Article 9 gives effect to Schedule 1, which contains the requirements for registration for GST purposes, and requires the Comptroller of Income Tax to maintain a register.

Article 10 sets out rules about partnerships for GST purposes.

Article 11 makes it possible for partnerships to be registered as if they were persons, and Article 12 for unincorporated associations to be registered as if they were persons.

Article 13 makes provision for the treatment of taxable agents (acting on behalf of non-taxable principals) for GST purposes.

Article 14 allows the Comptroller to require (or allow) persons outside Jersey to appoint GST representatives and Article 15 sets out the functions of GST representatives and limits their criminal liability.

Article 16 covers the situation where a person runs a business when another person is legally incapable for various reasons and Article 17 where a business is transferred as a going concern.

Part 4 Public sector

Article 18 defines some terms used in Part 4.

Article 19 sets out how the Law is to apply to the States of Jersey and other public administrations. The States are to be registered and to keep GST-style accounts, but goods and services that they supply without charge will not be subject to GST. They will pay GST only to the extent that Regulations so require.

Article 20 allows Regulations to be made to spell out the detail of the application of the Law to the States, the parishes, and other public administrations. (Note also that Article 53 requires any GST they pay to be refunded if the GST was paid on supplies, or importations, that were not for business purposes.)

Part 5 Supply

Article 21 specifies what a supply is, and, together with Schedule 2, what a supply of goods is and what a supply of services is.

Part 6 Place of supply

Article 22 defines the purpose of the Part, while Article 23 pinpoints the place where goods are to be treated as supplied for GST purposes, and Article 24 does the same for services.

Part 7 Time of supply sets out rules for determining for GST purposes when supplies take place.

Article 25 defines the purpose of the Part, while Article 26 sets out the basic rule for goods (time of removal or availability), and Article 27 the basic rule for services (time of performance).

However, the time of issue of a GST invoice, or time of payment, may be decisive, and indeed the Comptroller may, on application, fix a different time (Article 28).

More exceptions to the basic rules appear in Article 29 to cover situations where consideration is paid periodically, or goods are appropriated to a use after they are supplied etc.

Part 8 Application of Law to services supplied outside Jersey

Article 30 deals with supplies of certain services outside Jersey, treating them as if supplied by the person who receives them. The Article only applies to the services listed in Schedule 3, and these include financial services, professional services, and electronically-supplied services. Only taxable persons who receive the services for the purposes of a business are liable at this stage, but Regulations may be made to extend the provision to other persons.

Part 9 Value

This Part defines the base value of supplies and imported goods for the purposes of calculating the GST on them.

Article 31 makes the value of a supply basically the money consideration for the supply, minus the GST on the supply.

Article 32 makes the value of imported goods the customs value of the goods, plus taxes (except Jersey GST) and transport and other costs.

However Schedule 4 sets out specific rules for determining values in the cases of specific supplies, and in any case the Regulations may set out special rules for supplies and imports.

Part 10 Payment of GST by taxable persons

Article 33 defines input tax and output tax for the purposes of the Law.

Article 34 allows a taxable person to be credited in any prescribed accounting period (referred under Article 40 to a period specified under Article 41) with input tax to the extent allowed under Article 36.

Article 35 allows a GST credit sometimes to be postponed.

Article 37 makes provisions about input tax in situations where persons change their taxable status or become incorporated near the time of a supply or importation.

Article 38 excludes goods imported for private persons from the reckoning of input tax.

Article 39 excludes from the reckoning of input tax supplies and imports where these relate to the domestic accommodation of directors of bodies corporate or persons connected with them.

Articles 40 – 43 are a set of provisions about accounts and returns, Article 40 requiring accounts to be kept, returns furnished, and GST paid, Article 41 providing for general directions to make detailed requirements about accounts and returns, Article 42 requiring registered persons to issue GST invoices and Article 43 allowing Regulations to make special arrangements.

Article 44 requires trivial amounts of GST and trivial GST credits to be treated as nil.

Articles 45 – 47 provide for the securing and recovery of GST. The Comptroller may require payments on account (Article 45), or security to be given (Article 46). Amounts of GST or security amounts may be recovered as debts due to the States (Article 47).

Part 11 Exemptions, zero-rating, reliefs and repayments sets out 4 types of relief from GST.

Article 48 gives effect to Schedule 5, which makes certain supplies exempt from GST. This means that no GST is paid on the supply, but also that the supply cannot be counted towards the supplier's taxable supplies. The supplies include the supply of credit or any security, the management of a unit trust scheme, the supply of financial services, insurance, postal services and certain medical and paramedical goods and services and supplies by charities.

Article 49 gives to certain supplies and imported goods (specified in Schedules 6 and 9) the status of being zero-rated. Zero-rated supplies count as taxable supplies, but the GST on them amounts to nil. Zero-rated supplies include any export, the supply of a dwelling, supplies in relation to the construction (but not repair or conversion) of dwellings, supplies of medicines on prescription and supplies of international services (including the international transport of passengers).

Article 50 requires GST to be paid up on export goods that end up not being exported, though the Comptroller may exempt a person from this provision.

Article 51 provides for refunds in the case of an owner-builder who is constructing a dwelling otherwise than for business purposes.

Article 52 allows Regulations to provide for a reduction of GST on the supply (or importation) of second-hand goods.

Article 53 requires refunds of GST to the public sector if a supply to or importation by the public sector is not for business purposes.

Article 54 requires a refund of GST if a supply on which the GST is paid is in fact not paid for and the debt is written off.

Article 55 enables relief from GST on importations of goods if the goods were previously or subsequently exported or if relief is contemplated under an international agreement.

Article 56 generally allows Regulations to set out circumstances in which GST may be the subject of refund or relief.

Part 12 Finance vehicles and financial services industry

This Part provides for supplies to GST-listed finance vehicles (including trusts) to attract a flat rate of GST as long as the finance vehicles benefit residents overseas and certain other conditions are satisfied (Articles 57 – 59). The Part also provides for partial refunds of GST incurred by GST-listed banks on supplies and importations that can be related to the banks' supplies of services that benefit overseas clients (Articles 61 and 62).

Articles 57 and 59 set out the flat-rate scheme for listed finance vehicles, and Article 60 defines those finance vehicles.

Article 58 makes it clear that Article 57 is not intended to change the nature of supplies for the purposes of the Law.

Articles 61 and 62 set out the parameters of the partial refund scheme for listed banks.

Articles 63 – 66 concern the administration of the flat-rate and partial-refund schemes.

Article 63 requires the Comptroller to notify applicants of the listing of a finance vehicle or of a bank.

Article 64 requires that the Comptroller be told of changes in the circumstances of listed finance vehicles and listed banks.

Article 65 defines the value of supplies for the purposes of the flat-rate and partial-refund schemes.

Article 66 requires the Comptroller to hear interested parties on questions of listing.

Part 13 Administration

Article 67 gives the Comptroller general responsibility for the administration of the Law. However, the Agent of the Impôts will be responsible for GST imposed on imports and for enforcement of the Law in that domain.

Article 68 enables the appointment of authorized persons to carry out functions under the Law.

Articles 69 and 70 and Schedule 7 set out in some detail how the Customs and Excise (Jersey) Law 1999 is to apply when it comes to the collection of GST on imports and enables Regulations to be made to adapt further the Customs and Excise (Jersey) Law 1999 for the purposes of the collection of GST on imports.

Part 14 Failure to comply sets out a number of penalty taxes, surcharges and other administrative sanctions and remedies that apply if a person does not comply with the Law. Generally, however, penalty tax and surcharges for misconduct cannot be imposed on a person who is subject to criminal proceedings for the same misconduct.

There is a penalty tax that may be imposed if a person acts dishonestly in order to evade GST: Article 71. In the case of corporations (and certain other entities) that are dishonest, the Comptroller may collect the penalty tax from their directors: Article 72.

Failing to register or otherwise failing to comply with Schedule 1, failing to keep proper accounts or failing to account for GST, or issuing GST invoices when one is not registered, all attract penalty tax: Article 73.

A surcharge becomes payable if a person fails to pay GST on time or to furnish a return on time: Article 74.

If a person fails to keep adequate paperwork, the Comptroller may impose his or her own assessment on the person, and impose a surcharge for a repeated failure to keep adequate paperwork: Article 75.

Likewise, the Comptroller may require a person to account for goods, and, if the person then does not do so, the Comptroller may assess the missing GST: Article 76.

The Comptroller may also make an assessment in order to recover GST that the Comptroller has over-paid or over-credited to someone: Article 77.

There are time limits on making the assessments set out in this Part: Article 78.

Article 79 provides for a number of factors that may or shall be taken into account in assessing a penalty tax or a surcharge and Article 80 clarifies some general questions about penalty taxes and surcharges. Under Article 81, notice has to be given of an assessment to GST, penalty tax, or surcharge, under this Part and the assessed amount may be recovered as GST under Article 47.

Part 15 Late refunds

Article 82 provides for interest to be added to GST credits, or GST refunds, that the Comptroller fails to make on time.

Under Article 83 a person may, within 6 years, reclaim GST that was overpaid to the Comptroller.

Part 16 Appeals

Appeal may be made to a Commission of Appeal under the Income Tax (Jersey) Law 1961 in respect of a large number of matters under the GST Law, and new categories of appeal may be added by Regulations: Article 84.

The procedure and powers of the Commissioners are set out in Article 86 and various provisions of the Income Tax (Jersey) Law 1961 are applied by Article 85 to such an appeal.

An appeal may be settled by agreement between the appellant and the Comptroller: Article 87.

Part 17 Offences

A number of criminal offences is set out: fraudulent evasion of GST (Article 88), providing false information (Article 89), obstructing an authorized person (Article 90), and dealing in goods, or accepting services, knowing GST has been evaded on them (Article 91).

Directors may be liable for the criminal acts of corporations (and of certain other entities), and aiders and abettors are also liable for the same offences as the principal offender (Article 92).

Part 18 Miscellaneous

Article 93 and Schedule 8 give authorized persons certain powers in enforcement of the Law. They may examine goods and services, as well as records and other things. They may take samples. They may also enter property and search for evidence of offences against the Law.

The States may make Regulations under Article 94 about the display and other disclosure of prices and GST, including requiring GST not to be separately disclosed.

A certificate of the Comptroller about various administrative matters under the Law is usually sufficient evidence of those matters for judicial and other legal purposes: Article 95.

Certain utterances of a person do not become inadmissible in evidence just because statements were made to the person about the Comptroller's powers, even if these statements encouraged the person to make those utterances: Article 96.

Under a number of Articles of the Law, the Comptroller may give directions, including directions about procedural matters. Under Article 97, the Comptroller may determine procedural matters (including forms) by general directions (that is, directions to the public or to a class of persons).

Article 97 goes on to say that the Comptroller may refuse to act on a matter if a required fee (fixed in Regulations made by the States) has not been paid in respect of the matter.

Procedural requirements for making directions and for other administrative acts of the Comptroller are set out in Article 98.

Article 99 sets out service and notice requirements in respect of directions.

Article 100 gives the States power to make Regulations about certain GST matters. It includes power to amend Schedules 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7.

Article 101 and Schedule 9 contain transitional provisions and savings.

Article 102 specifies the name of the Law and contains commencement provisions.

Note 1 – the Schedules are discussed within the context of their appropriate Articles above: Schedule 1 under Article 9, Schedule 2 under Article 21, Schedule 3 under Article 30, Schedule 4 under Part 9, Schedule 5 under Article 48, Schedule 6 under Article 49, Schedule 7 under Part 13, Schedule 8 under Article 93 and Schedule 9 under Articles 49 and 101.

Note 2 – By virtue of the Interpretation (Jersey) Law 1954 –

- (a) where a penalty is specified for an offence, the offence is punishable by a penalty not exceeding the penalty specified;
- (b) where the penalties for an offence are stated to be a term of imprisonment and a fine, either or both of the penalties may be imposed.

Note 3 – Where a penalty is expressed in the proposed Law as a fine of a specified level “on the standard scale”, this is a reference to the scale set out in the Criminal Justice (Standard Scale of Fines) (Jersey) Law 1993. The maximum penalties for each level in that scale are, currently –

- Level 1 £50
- Level 2 £500
- Level 3 £2,000
- Level 4 £5,000.

PART 1

PRELIMINARY

“authorized person” means any person authorized under Article 68;

“belong” has, in relation to a country and a supplier or recipient of services, the meaning set out in Article 4;

“business” has the meaning set out in Article 2;

“Comptroller” means the Comptroller of Income Tax under the Income Tax (Jersey) Law 1961<sup>[1]</sup>;
