

20th February 2009

Radio listener -

The caller feels that IS looks after the wrong types of people and that the structure does not look after workers anymore. It supports people who do not turn up pleading illness. These people did it under the old system and do it with the new one too.

They claim that they are better off on IS than working which is not right. Most people work full time, there is no incentive for people who want to work.