Hi All,

I have spoken with all three of you in the last few days where 'Hangman's Corner' has come up in conversation. Below is a link to the Jerripedia page on Westmount which has a lot of interesting photos and drawings as well as history of the area. I don't know that is it accurate but thought I would pass it on. I took a screen shot of two illustrations of the Gallows here included on the page. While there is nothing marking it today, you can see it is clearly on the southern tip of the hill at the hairpin turn. Residents are agitated today as a few surveyors are out spray painting the ground clearly showing the government is not taking any public input or views into consideration. It is shameful. Our Facebook page has 263 outraged members with many of our diagrams and overlays shared broadly.

Thanks for all your efforts to help the States have sufficient information in front of them to make informed decisions.

Tamara
