

The only addition we would recommend as a maritime training organisation, is that all boat users hold a recognised qualification that provides the remit for an individual to operate the type, and size of vessel they are venturing out on, in the area they are operating in; i.e coastal / offshore / day / night. By doing this I am sure there would be a significant reduction in distress calls and accidents.